ROI Assessment

Misys ROI Assessment helps you to demonstrate the expected or achieved ROI from your planned or deployed software, prove the business case for software investments, and showcase success internally and externally.

To demonstrate the tangible bottom-line benefit delivered by Misys software solutions, the tailored ROI Assessment service provides the people and skills to validate your investments.

Delivered through the Customer Value Team, the Misys ROI Assessment offers a group of business case experts who can be brought in, at no cost to you, to analyse your current-state business and quantify the value of moving to a future-state position using a Misys solution.

The team performs this type of analysis – which can include ROI quantification, strategic analysis, process mapping, and other activities – for prospective customers, and conducts studies to determine achieved ROI for existing customers.

To conduct the ROI analyses, Misys has developed user-friendly ROI calculators designed to detail the quantified benefits. For each product, the calculator contains multiple potential benefits rolled up into different benefit categories, such as productivity improvements, cost savings, and revenue growth. Each individual benefit is supported by product capability statements and can be switched on/off to tailor the ROI output.

Chart the progress of your technology investment

Your data inputs can be loaded quickly and easily, to generate specific, tailored results such as ROI over different time horizons and payback periods. The ROI calculator's results are available in usable charts for inclusion in final ROI presentations.

To demonstrate expected or achieved business benefits in hard numbers, take advantage of fully documented ROI Assessment service from the Customer Value Team.
